YOUR OPPORTUNITY

The Age of Chivalry is not altogether dead. We still have with us brave grooms and sailors and kind and friendly policemen. But Don Quixote and Sir Galahad, Ulysses and Anteaous Knights and crusaders, the whole vast and lovely pageantry of Fairyland have gone the way of all things human. Romance has become so rare that most of us can find it only at the movies.

The impulse to help one another is a very old instinct in the human race. Today we have it organized and correlated but it is none the less strong. The Red Cross nurse who does everything in a little town from bathing the new baby to laying out the dead is our modern incarnation of an ancient principle. Her only reward is—like that of all conscientious workers, in the work itself. The babies she has brought through their first few stormy months, the mothers she has saved, the crippled children she has sent to hospitals, the service men whose family she has nursed through typhoid pneumonia, typhoid and tuberculosis, small pox and scarlet fever are just as terrifying and far more fatal than any dragon Cadmus ever killed. Ignorance and malnutrition can do more to wreck a nation than an army of a million men.

In battle, famine and disaster we are quick to grant the nurse her due. But here on the prosaic battle fields of home, which is where most of us are doomed to fight and die, she often goes practically unhonored and unsung.

You have an opportunity to keep a nurse in Clarendon County—Join the Red Cross.

TEACHER'S MEETING

The first meeting for the session is called to meet at the Court House on Saturday, November 19th at 11 o'clock. A full attendance is requested. The trustees throughout the County are also invited to attend this meeting and to take part.

The two main topics for discussion on that occasion will be school finances and the Compulsory Attendance law. It behooves all to co-operate and to post themselves on these matters, as our schools are vitally affected by them. Let's have a good turn out, both of teachers and trustees.

E. J. Browne,
County Superintendent.
